

Waiting for Yesterday

12 Stones

It's a long walk back to reality
She puts another brick in the wall of shame she made so long ago Trying to figure out where things went wrong Searching through all the lies she told Somehow she missed out on all the things that she needed most Days spent wondering why this life is so cold and nothing ever changes

Screaming for attention, watch the sun steal
yesterday
Hiding all emotion far away

Trying to find his self confidence, another broken heart behind the painless smile that he shows Reminded that yesterday is so far gone And tomorrow is still a miracle somehow he missed out on all the things he needed most Days spent wondering why this life is so cold and nothing ever changes

Screaming for attention, watch the sun steal
yesterday
Hiding all emotion far away

But tomorrow's still a miracle