

Where The Wild Waters Flow

Axel Rudi Pell

When the sun lost his shadow and hear there cries on a rainy day
Silent whispers, echos in the distance scary voices brining fear and pain
See the light leading out on there darkness its shining down still long way to go

Where the wild waters flow
And black roses fail to grow
Where the wild waters flow
And the black roses fail to grow
Fail to grow

Hear the wild horses coming the stairs of doom
To a world which is loved before behind the velved moon
Coming on alone out of the dark, will we survive?
Hiding the secret dungeons till the sun will rise
See the light leading out on there darkness, its shining down still long way to go

Where the wild waters flow
And black roses fail to grow
Where the wild waters flow
And the black roses fail to grow

Sometimes you wonder and look in the crystal ball
There is no time for surrender with your back to the wall

Where the wild waters flow
And black roses fail to grow
Where the wild waters flow
And the black roses fail to grow
Will be lost forever
One night, one night to remember , yea.... with the wild waters flow fail to grow
Where the wild waters flow...
