

I see these people everyday.
These zombie like lab rats just wasting away.
And what I see it's not for me.
Your really not living you're barely existing.
I'm trying hard to think for myself.
And I won't waste away.
I'm living for today.
Your rules were meant to break.
And I won't waste away.
Your really not living you're barely existing.

And luxury is what you make it.
It's what you enjoy and what you take for granted.
I can't agree with how we're acting.
There's too much going on and there's not enough reaction.
But I've been there myself I've been there before.
You can't close your eyes its not gonna go away.
The world won't stop turning without you.
You're rules were meant to break.
Your really not living your barely existing.
I won't waste away.