

The Nation I Love

Brutal Attack

Once this green and pleasant land was a sleeping giant in a raging sea now she's seen her warriors slain this helpless giant wonders how can this be

My nation is dying, it fills me with sadness the nation I love, is now filled with badness my nation is crying, oh why so much madness The nation I love has never had less

Where are they now her warrior braves who's lives were proudly pledged to protect they're now all lying in unmarked grave for their love and pride they would never reject

Listen now it's not too late to rise and resurrect the dream of a brave new world we all now fight for the greatest pride march into battle with standards unfurled

So come and stand proudly by my side together we will build a triumphant story feel your lionheart swell with pride

As we march on with the power and the glory
