End of Green

You see me run, run, run to the station you've seen me hide, hide all life long i catch the train, train, train out to nowhere it doesn't matter where i belong i'll never be backstabbed, backstab me back, stab my back and i 'll be gone you always want it, you never need it stop changing everything you always hunt it, you never get it stop changing everything and everyday as the mourning breaks again overnight every midnight is the same overtime take a look into the scars you will see me again it's in the blood, blood, i keep pushing i feel you run, run through my veins i'll let it bleed, bleed, bleed on your ashes it's in my heart what still remains i'll never be backstabbed, backstab me back, stab me back, stab me back and i'll be gone