The saddest smile
can fill my heart with lies
To laugh or cry
that's what it's all about
I just can't figure out

I said goodnight and hung up the phone Stayed up all night 'cause I knew you weren't alone And all those memories will be my death The smell of your presence has stained my bed I used their love to compensate the lack of you But it's too late Your pretty eyes I'd give my life Good reason not to ask me out So drink up and get me drunk and let it drag me all around

The saddest smile
To laugh or cry
