

Best Love Song I Ever Wrote

Jake Coco

I started this song at 2 am on a lonely Sunday night
I wanted to make things easier I wanted to make things
I'm hungry for a midnight snack you know yeah I'm hungry for you

But kitchens closed girl yeah I know, so whats this boy to do

You are everything, everything I hoped for
You are everything, everything I need.

But when tomorrow comes, will you be there, should I even try do you even care?

Do you know how far Id go, just to keep the pain from you, oh girl I would do anything for you.

I been watching you sleep for a night or two and I know I'm on your mind

I see it in your eyes you know hes running out of time.

I talk to you for hours without saying a word.

Heres the best love song that I ever wrote, hope its the best youve ever heard.