Bluebird Cafe

John Waite

Her I.D, says she's 21 But she's just 17 Her apron says Mary But her real name is Jean

She's working cleaning tables off At the local Dairy Queen And she's the real thing Yeah

Young hearts can fly restless and wild Though it's a thousand days away She's got the will and she'll find a way To the stage of the Bluebird Cafe

To the stage of the Bluebird Cafe She's got her boyfriends name Carved in the back of her guitar It's a beat up old Epiphone

With painted on stars She wears her brother's 501's And keeps her tips in a jar By a picture of Patsy Cline

She's fine Young hearts can fly restless and wild Though she'll get out of this town someday She's got the will and she'll find a way

To the stage of the Bluebird Cafe Yeah To the stage of the Bluebird Cafe She's into country body and soul

But nobody's future is written in stone And to get what she wants She's gonna have to walk alone And she will

All the way to Nashville To Nashville Yeah yeah She comes out of work some nights

Stops and stares down the road Through the heat and the crickets And the telegraph poles Out in the darkness

Hank's Blue Highway calls
And she just stops and smiles
Yeah
Young hearts can fly restless and wild

Though it's a thousand days away
She's got the will and she'll find a way yeah

To the stage of the Bluebird Cafe $\ensuremath{\mathsf{Yeah}}$

To the stage of the Bluebird Cafe She's got the will and she'll find a way To the stage of the Bluebird Cafe
