

Tumbling Down

Katy B

Loving me right
You fill my dreams with sweetness all through the night
Until the sky turns red
I'm stuck, I'm sugar craving
A honey pool I bathe in
Rolling around
Our love is shining like a jewel on a crown
I'll place it on your head
Fit for a ceremony
Say I'm your one and only

It's so natural, magical, wonderful
Scrambling for what you give, I want it all
And every day a little more, I feel the fall
I feel the fall

I'm tumbling down
This wall that I built falls down before me
Crumbling down
Say it's the beginning of a beautiful story
I'm tumbling, crumbling
Right down to love, to love

Down on my knees
You got my temperature 100 degrees
My t-shirt's soaking wet
You bring the heat, the fever
My girl said you'd hurt me but I won't believe her
Nothing before
Could ever come between this love I adore
There's nothing she could say
To shock me or surprise me
I'll keep your secrets, be the lock on your diary

It's so natural, magical, wonderful
Scrambling for what you give, I want it all
And every day a little more, I feel the fall
I feel the fall

I'm tumbling down
This wall that I built falls down before me
Crumbling down
Say it's the beginning of a beautiful story
I'm tumbling, crumbling
Right down to love, to love

In your arms, a heaven tailored just for me
A state so calm, yet so full of energy
Brick by brick, you take my pry, give it away
Caught me quick when said I was here to stay
I'm tumbling down
I'm tumbling down
I'm tumbling down

I'm tumbling down
This wall that I built falls down before me
Crumbling down

Say it's the beginning of a beautiful story
I'm tumbling, crumbling
Right down to love, to love