

Dividend In Division

Kekal

anger, violence and death work, exhaustion and death anguish, suicide and death evil, murder and death our minds turn straight to division as logic fades itself toward oblivion pain sent to elevate bitterness do we love it more than a blunt statement? dream, desire and life faith, endurance and life hope, ambition and life love, devotion and life kill the thoughts you are trying to shift outside perimeter of synthetic conscience grasp a very motion from devoid intellect drift and fluctuate as truth was never explored tragedy brings apathy to ignorance like street lights beaming on empty avenues cognizance withstands the swarm of suffering as it never forgives, and it never forgets a mouthful of godforsaken emptiness formed featureless shapes among dead clouds i was amazed at the staircase leading nowhere but it drives dividend on a poor soul of mine

[september 2012 - february 2013]