There was a man A King of England in good old times,
He tried his hand at making cakes and writing nursery rhymes.
Although he was a good old man, he never had a wife.
And when he put the cakes in the pan - burned them up to fire c inders
He didn't bake to save his life.

Mini-mini, tiny-miny, locomotion He didn't wanna start with just a wad of potion Oh-oh, Medicine Woman, Oh-oh, Medicine Woman

Mini-mini, tiny-miny, locomotion Never mind the story - give me wad of potion. Oh-oh, Medicine Woman Oh-oh, Medicine Woman

There was a man Who thought that boys were made of stamps and snails.
He tried his hand at driving goods and telling fairy tales
Although he was a good old man, he never had a wife,
And never ended helping a friend, never got to be famous He didn't write to save his life...

Mini-mini, tiny-miny, locomotion He didn't wanna start with just a wad of potion Oh-oh, Medicine Woman Oh-oh, Medicine Woman

Mini-mini, tiny-miny, locomotion Never mind the story - give me wad of potion. Oh-oh, Medicine Woman Oh-oh, Medicine Woman
