

Places Remained

Nosound

I saw you outside in your own reflection looking for friends without caution they asked you to try again you had to stop, but facts remained you can say I was losing my fight you can say I was wrong and you were right you were lying and keeping away all the feelings you always complained you can say you were losing your mind you can say you were feeling behind you were looking for places around falling down until you hit the ground selling out all the emotions you pictured your life without caption can't stop this because of the flow, the days, the options and feels the way you always deceive

you can say I was losing my fight
you can say I was wrong and you were right
you were lying and keeping away
all the feelings you always complained
you can say you were losing your mind
you can say you were feeling behind you were looking for places remained confusing yourself in the rain