Adolescence Repressed

Remembering Never

Sometimes murder seems so close. Did you think if I let it slide I am not the same person? Year to year I never grew up right. Childhood bliss, hardened heart. I am not the same. Day to day burdens of repetitive violence. You are the king of the block. Who am I? Don't let me see you alone. Don't blink, I am damned if you blink. Walk with others or walk with the devil. I swear you will pay for your sins. Good things happen to those who wait. I have waited long enough. Die for everything you have done. You lived by the gun. I hope you die by one. I have a conscience or I would do it myself. I have a conscience or I would do it myself. I am never the same
