

Days Will Never Be the Same

Sunshine

She used be the one reading
The gossip from the lips
Hanging out with witches
Gifted down below
Watching other people kissing
The cold fire of the hips
Never looking any better
To melt strawberry snow

Always reading about suicide
And I just realized
One morning she was gone
And if you want
What you're taking away, what you're taking away from me
Is what I'm taking away, taking away from you

You can be anything you want till you get paralyzed
It's not easy when you know how to look suprised
Days will never be the same, no no
They will never be the same

Something's better twice than nothing
I felt a lot of pain
Bring back those magic moments
That we used to share
It's not even very shocking
We're like a broken chain
Now we both know it's over
Days will never be the same

Always reading about suicide.....

You can be anything you want till you get paralyzed
It's not easy when you know how to get surprised
Days will never be the same, no no
They will never be the same anymore
