Look Where We Are Now

Teddy Geiger

I need a break it's all the same Under the sweet December rain Just a crack of yellow light To shine on my head You'll find that I fought for the right To laugh with my eyes till tears would fall And the salt would hit my lips With some love to help me survive Don't you want it? I've never seen anyone who wants it this bad

You say games are much more fun I'd rather play than get things done But look where we are now Look where we are now

So the pencils change to pens I just want to hang out with my friends We can give it our all Time after time but it just keeps on getting harder And getting hotter to the touch I need the hot and simple sun I wanna just let go With someone to help me survive Don't you want it? I've never seen anyone who wants it this bad

You say games are much more fun I'd rather play than get things done But look where we are now Look where we are now You say life happens too fast I'd rather play and make it last But look where we are now Well look where we are now

I guess if I change up this direction we could Start it all over, my dear, yeah If I could just move in this direction we could, yeah

You say games are much more fun I'd rather play than get things done But look where we are now Look where we are now You said life happens too fast I'd rather play and make it last But look where we are now But look where we are now

You said it, you said it Games were much more fun But look where we are now
