

Free again

Terminal Choice

She's sitting home watching TV
But inside she is crying she feel so left alone
She tries to keep herself from dying
She's thinking of her youth when everythin was easy
And she was dancing in the sun

And now she's praying for a wonder
For someone to hear her cry
Someone to take away the devil
Who's sleeping by her side

She's switching through the channels
Of the TV every night just to forget
What he has done to her in every fucking night

She wants to be free again
She wants to feel the sun on her skin
She wants to beloved again
She wants to run away from this pain

And now she's praying for a wonder
For someone to hear her cry
Someone to take away the devil
Who's sleeping by her side

She's switching through the channels
Of the TV every night just to forget
What he has done to her in every fucking night

She wants to be free again
She wants to feel the sun on her skin
She wants to beloved again
She wants to run away from this pain

She's sitting home watching TV
But inside she is crying she feel so left alone
She tries to keep herself from dying
She's thinking of her youth when everythin was easy
And she was dancing in the sun