

Chorus Of Fools

The Crookes

Watch those fools run, watch those fools run
They tear apart their ragged hearts
Watch those fools run, watch those fools run

We said we would keep our heads today. We said we would keep our heads today...

...it was by far and away...

The coldest thing that you could ever say.

We danced there under the street lights.
It was clear that you, you and me were fated to be so damn blue

How their blood runs, how their blood runs
Cold into the night. Now this darkened street's a sight.
How their blood runs, how their blood runs
Cold into the night. Now this darkened street's a sight.

We said we would keep our heads today. We said we would keep our heads today...

...it was by far and away...

The coldest thing that you could ever say.

We danced there under the street lights.
It was clear that you, you and me were fated to be so damn blue

But we're still young. Let us fall asleep together in the sun.
And there's still time. Let us raise our glasses and drain out cheap wine.
