A Light At The End Of The Tunnel

War Of Words

Before the fire robbed us all His last companion was the floor But with a passing comes new life Cos we were all Addicts that night

The night that friends could reunite The night that we could make it right The night that hate drowned in a glass And we made history of the past

Cos we all might fall into the darkest holes But we still might find the light again

The good the bad might always pass Someone once told me nothing lasts For all the many times I've tried I still can't bury the alive

Cos we all might fall into the darkest holes But we still might find the light again