Find Me To Forgive

William Fitzsimmons

You were the only thing I ever loved Taken for granted you couldn't stand it, anymore You were my lover for nearly 8 years But I am my father and I found another The last 16 months have been nothing but hell I thought about jumping, but that would be something In the short time that I learned how to fly Would you forgive me, or bring flowers to me, by the grave

Will you look the same when I meet you up there Remember my name, please Will you look the same when I meet you up there Remember my name, find me to forgive

I haven't seen you for over a year I heard you were married, the baby you carried isn't mine I don't suppose that you'll still have my name You'll have another if you're not my lover, anymore
