As long as we can rock together I guess we can rock some more

Against the prejudices within this hall. Tonight we won't change the world

But we could make a start in the way that we behave. Right noew!

We are the kids, we male the difference.

And it starts right here at the Punkrock-Show.

Wer are the kids, we make the difference.

More than musik what this is all about

Your life can be completely off the beaten track

And it is definitely too short to waste the little time you have.

Do you see them standing in the line and waiting? Nor for you and not for me

The rules are simple: do whatever you want. Take back your life.

That's right - I am pretty sure we can Do better than ones we hate, let's go - right now Let us show, that we can male it on our own. No control I know it sounds al little bit oldschool, talking about the time when unity was new. Today it seems to me we lost hope in this ideal.

Come on now. Let's go. Tolerance and acceptance at the show

I stille belive, that in this scene, there is a lot you won't see in MTV.
